Colts Neck Student Launches March 26 Purple Day Fundraiser for Epilepsy Foundation

By  James_Quirk - Posted on  25 March 2010

Andrea Biddle, a freshman at Colts Neck High School (pictured here with Andrea Raccioppi from the Epilepsy Foundation), has spearheaded a special fundraiser for the Epilepsy Foundation. Friday, March 26 is Purple Day (see www.purpleday.org), and the students and staff at Colts Neck High School are raising money in support of students with epilepsy.

Students and staff have been asked to wear purple on Friday, March 26 in support of this cause. Further, students can donate a dollar during all lunch periods. Project Shine students are collecting the donations with the help of some of our students with epilepsy, and students will put their names on signs that will hang in the cafeteria. The Epilepsy Foundation provided pins and book markers with information about epilepsy and Purple Day. Students in Andrea's classes did research on the internet about epilepsy and made posters to hang in the school. The Epilepsy Foundation provided posters announcing Purple Day and posters with information about what to do if someone has a seizure.

Further, for a donation of $5, staff members at Colts Neck will receive purple ribbons to wear and be allowed to wear jeans for the day.
